MVTV is Growing

The MVTV Board of Directors wants members to know that work progresses with architect Joe Eldridge on plans for either an expansion to the current building or plans for a new building. Stay tuned for more info as developments progress.

MVTV : ON DEMAND

Tell your friends...we're On Demand!
Go to www.mvtv.org, and on the menu at the left on the homepage, the first entry, reads "Video on Demand". Click on this, then select Public, Education or Government to see the schedule. Highlight the show you want from the schedule, and click 'view'. Or request a show by name on the menu that appears—you must type in the show name in the title field.
Not all programs are available yet, but we're working on it.

MVTV: Connecting the Community

Here's how it works: the annual Membership fee of $25.00 entitles you to classes on media orientation and on handling video & audio equipment. You are then eligible for free camera and audio rental, and one-on-one classes on editing. You don't even have to own a computer...you can book time on one of our Macs or PCs. We give you all you need to produce your own television show.

- You can do it! -

• Tank Talk

• The A Trot Report

do not have regular time slots but are frequently seen on MVTV Channel 13.

For scheduled showings go to www.MVTV.org

CARL'S CORNER

MVTV now has a teleprompter!

It's great for field reporting, information based video, video podcasting and speeches. Prompt and shoot anywhere! Call Carl or Steve for details. 508-696-9760.

Video contest for high school students

Don't miss out on the third annual "Dance. Don't Chance" video contest, sponsored by the state's Executive Office of Public Safety and Security. The contest is open to registered Massachusetts high school juniors and seniors. To enter, produce a 60-second video that promotes safe driving and discourages underage drinking. In addition, students are encouraged to address important issues such as speeding and drag racing, seat belt usage, and distracted driving due to texting and cell phone use. The contest runs through March 12. Entry guidelines and information are available online at www.mass.gov/safety/promshorts.

The winner will be announced this spring, and his or her video will be aired as a public service announcement. The winning student's school will receive prom-related prizes.
